In today's increasingly competitive global PCB marketplace, it is critical to continuously reduce costs, improve quality, and invest in new processes while manufacturing ever more complex PCB's. Many PCB manufacturers face growing challenges of low volume, high-tech, and quick turn around – the perfect storm for putting a heavy burden on front-end engineering resources.

Now, you can depend on Entelechy, with it's proven track record of high quality, reliable engineering services to do the job for you. We can handle Quote data processing, Pre-CAM, CAM, and Post-CAM work. We support industry leading Genesis, U-CAM, and CAM 350 systems with the highest levels of automation in the business. We also offer turnkey services to meet your specific needs in product engineering with products like InPlan and Engenix.

Our best-in-class services, quality, infrastructure and methodology in combination with our highly experienced team is second to none. Our team has over 300 years of combined experience in delivering to some of the most demanding requirements in the industry.

The hallmark of our success revolves around a process of continuous improvement through automation and standardization while providing full transparency to our customers.

Our value proposition is very straightforward:

- Off-load workload surges – we offer easily scalable engineering capacity to help manage ups and downs in your business
